I agree with Dr. Seuss because when the school had reindeer day almost every one wore antlers, and I wore antlers but, with a scarf and sunglasses with a sign that said Dasher on it because I looked dashing in my outfit, also Dasher is one of the 8 reindeer that pull Santa's sleigh. When I got to my class room some people laughed at me, but all of my friends made signs of their own so I would not feel like an out cast. My friends were the people who mattered and they did not mind, the people who laughed mind, and that doesn't matter.

Another reason why I agree with Dr. Seuss is when I was at the playground I saw some people excluding some one out of a game, I felt that that was not nice, so I walked over to the people and told the person who was left out to come play with me and my friends.

"Be who you are and say what you feel, because those who mind, don't matter, and those who matter, don't mind."
